SPECIAL NOTICE.

TO THE LADIES.—Do you really intend to cease wearing the beautiful styles now so prevalent, or dress less elegantly, because the rebel Jeff. Davis, was captured in Fashionable Female attire? One moment's calm reflection will surely serve to change your rash resolve. The angels had too much good sense to lay aside their pure chaste robes of white, because they had for a time served to hide the deformities of that Prince of Rebels, the Devil. Can you err in following the examples of Angels? Then having made up your minds that you will continue to dress tastefully regardless of rebel acts, do not forget to call at the store of the subscribers, who will be happy at all times to furnish you with such articles of dress as you may desire. Urge your fathers, husbands, brothers, neighbors and children to visit the same store. They can here be suited in good articles of Boots, Shoes, Clothing Material, Hats, Caps, Queensware and a general assortment of Groceries, on as reasonable terms as at any House in town. FIRMNESS OF A LADY IN A PET.

Well let him go, and let him stay,
I do not mean to die,
I guess he'll find that I can live
Without him, if I try;
He thought to frighten me with frowns
So terrible and black;
He'll stay away a thousand years
Before I ask him back.

He said that I had acted wrong—
And foolishly beside;
I won't forget him after that—
I would'nt if I died,
If I was wrong, what right had he
To be so cross to me?
I know I'm not an angel, quite—
I don't pretend to be.

He had another sweetheart once—
And now when we fall out,
He always says she was not cross,
And that she did not pout;
It is enough to vex a saint—
It's more than I can bear;
I wish that girl of his was—
Well I don't care where.

He thinks that she is pretty, too—
Is beautiful and good;
I wonder if she'd get him back
Again now, if she could.
I know she would, and there she is—
She lives almost in sight;
And now it's after nine o'clock,
Perhaps he's there to-night.

I'd almost write for him to come—
But then I've said I won't;
I do not care so much, but she—
Shan't have him if I don't.
Besides, I know that I was wrong,
And he was in the right;
I guess I'll tell him so, and then—
I wish he'd come to-night.

OLD MAIDS.—Never be afraid of becoming an old maid, fair reader. An old maid is far more honorable than a heartless wife, and "single blessedness" is greatly superior in point of happiness to wedded life without love. "Fall not in love, dear girls—beware!" says the song. But we do not agree with said song on this question. On the contrary, we hold that it is a good thing to fall in love, or get in love, if the loved object be a worthy one. To fall in love with an honorable man is as proper as it is for an honorable man to fall in love with a virtuous and amiable woman. What could be a more gratifying spectacle than a sight so pure, so approaching in its devotion to the celestial? No: fall in love as soon as you like, provided it be with a suitable person. Fall in love—but then marry; but never marry unless you do love. That's the great point. Never marry for a "home" or a "husband;" never degrade yourself by becoming a party to such an alliance. Never sell yourself, body and soul, on terms so contemptible. Love dignifies all things; it ennables all conditions. With love, the marriage rite is truly a sacrament. Without it, the ceremony is a base fraud, and the act a human desecration. Marry for love, or not at all. Be "an old maid" if fortune throws not in your way the man of your heart; and though the witless may sneer and the jester may laugh you still have your reward in an approving conscience and a comparatively peaceful life.—Phrenological Journal.

☞ I overheard a moonstruck chap, the other day, writes Darby Doyle, who said that he loved a certain young lady well enough to die for her. Now, I love somebody very much, and,
I'd swear for her,
I'd tear for her,
The Lord knows what I'd do for her;
I'd lie for her,
I'd sigh for her.
I'd drink the Hudson dry for her;
I'd pray for her,
I'd stay for her,
I'd watch the house all day for her;
I'd "cuss" for her,
Do "wuss" for her,
I'd always have a "buss" for her;
I'd leap for her,
I'd weep for her,
I'd go without my sleep for her;
I'd fight for her,
I'd bite for her,
I'd walk the streets all night for her;
I'd plead for her,
I'd bleed for her,
I'd go without my feed for her;
I'd shoot for her,
I'd boot for her,
I'd rival who'd come to "toot" for her;
I'd kneel for her,
I'd steal for her,
Such is the love I'd feel for her;
I'd slide for her,
I'd ride for her,
I'd swim 'gainst rain and tide for her;
I'd try for her,
I'd cry for her,
But hang me, if I'd die for her!
N. B.—Or any other woman.

MEN AND WOMEN.—Men love things—as facts, possessions, and estates; and women, persons; and while a man regards only abstract scientific facts; a woman looks only at the person in whom they are embodied. Even in childhood the little girl loves an imitation of humanity—her doll—and works for it; the boy gets a hobby horse or tools, and works with them. But the noblest quality wherewith nature has endowed woman for the good of the world is love—that love which seeks no sympathy and no return. The child is the object of love, kisses and watching, and answers them only by complaint and anger; and the feeble creature that requires the most repays the least. But the mother goes on; her love only grows stronger the greater the need and the unthankfulness of its object; and while fathers prefer the strongest of their children, the mother feels more love for the feeble and garruleus.

"You need a little sun and air," said a physician to a lady patient. "If I do." was the reply, "I'll wait till I get a husband."

Steel and How Made.

Steel is a variety of iron occupying position between wrought iron and cast iron, having less of carbon then cast iron and more than wrought iron. Pure malleable, or wrought iron, theoretically contains no carbon, but probably few specimens exist without containing some. Cast iron has four or five per cent, and steel only from one-half to one and a half per cent. As the proportion of carbon in steel increases so it becomes hard and brittle and increases in fusibility as cast iron; but with diminishing proportions of carbon it assumes more and more of the softness, malleability, and toughness of wrought iron. Steel of the former character are called "high" steels, and of the other "low" or "mild" steel. Steel is made in Germany direct from pig iron which contains four or five per cent of carbon. By furnace manipulation a portion of this carbon is driven out and the product is German steel. This is not a pure steel and is generally incapable of being hardened and tempered.

The usual method of producing steel is cementation or conversion, bars of wrought iron being used. A furnace of suitable form contains boxes made of fire brick in which the bars of iron are packed in layers covered with charcoal powder. The bars do not touch each other, but each is enveloped with the charcoal. When filled the pots are covered and cemented air tight. Heat is then applied by the proper furnace and grates and the fire gradually increased in intensity for several days. A test bar is introduced at the beginning and is occasionally withdrawn to determine the progress of the process. When the process is completed, the bars, if broken, will be found to have changed their fibrous for a crystalline structure. The surface of the bars is covered with thin blisters as though lamina of the iron had been raised by the expansion of a gas under them, from this it gets the name of blistered steel. For some purposes this steel is useful, but it is unfit to be worked into tools for cutting wood or metals.

The next process is the tilting. The bars are cut into convenient length, piled together and heated in a furnace to a weld and placed under a trip hammer which welds the pieces together and draws them out into a bar. This process improves the quality of the steel and fits it for some purposes; but there is another method of treating the blistered steel; that is to melt the steel in air-tight crucibles and cast it. The ingots are then re-heated, and hammering and rolling is very important. In fact, after the conclusion of the manufacture in the working of the steel bars to form them into tools, good forgers always expect to refine and improve the steel by judicious heating and hammering.

What makes the great difference between steel and wrought or cast iron is still a puzzle to merchants and scientific men. The main difference appears to be in the varying proportions of carbon which each contains, and in the different chemical conditions in which it exists, yet the amount in those specimens which contain the most is so small that it is difficult to account for its so entirely changing the metal. It is not yet fully settled that iron and carbon is chemically united in the best of steel, while it is certain that it is not so united in cast iron but that the union is a merely mechanical one. There is much yet to be learned about iron and steel before we arrive at the real facts.—Scientific American.

Brightness of the Sun.

The means we have of measuring the intensity of light are not nearly so exact as in the case of heat; but this at least we know—that the most intense lights we can produce artificially are as nothing compared surface for surface with the sun. The most brilliant produced is that of a ball of quick lime kept violently hot by a flame of mixed ignited oxygen and hydrogen gases playing on its surface. Such a ball, it brought near enough to appear of the same size as the sun does, can no more be looked at without hurt than the sun, and both so enfeebled by a dark glass as to allow of their being looked at together, it appears as a black spot on the sun, or as the black outline of the moon in an eclipse, seen thrown upon it. It has been ascertained by experiments, which I cannot now describe, that the brightness, the intrinsic splendor of such a lime ball is only the one hundred and forty-sixth part of that of the sun's surface. That is to say, that the sun gives out as much light as one hundred and forty-six balls of quick lime, each the size of the sun, and each heated all over its surface in the way I have described, which is the most intense heat we can raise, and in which platina melts like lead.

And then in a further section Sir John Herschel tells us that the nucleus or kernel of the sun itself, at an immeasurable depth beneath its intensely luminous photosphere, emits so little light as to appear, in the comparison, quite as black, though that does not prevent its being in as vivid a state of fiery glare as a white hot iron, when we remember what has been said of the lime light appearing black against the light of the sun's surface. And it is a fact, that when Venus and Mercury pass across the sun, and are seen as round spots on it, they do really appear blacker than the blackest parts of the spots; so that even the kernel of the sun is probably a luminous body, though so much less luminous than its outer envelopes to be seen quite dark in the comparison.

Truths for Wives.

In domestic happiness, the wife's influence is much greater than the husband's: for the one, the first cause—mutual love and confidence—being granted, the whole comfort of the household depends upon trifles more immediately under her jurisdiction. By her management of small sums, her husband's respectability and credit are created or destroyed. No fortune can stand the constant leakages of extravagance and mismanagement; and more is spent in trifles than women would easily believe. The one great expense, whatever it may be, is turned over and carefully reflected on ere incurred; the income is prepared for it; but it is pennies imperceptibly sliding away that do the mischief; and this the wife alone can stop, for it does not come within a man's province. There is often an unsuspected trifle to be saved in every household. It is not in economy alone that the wife's attention is so necessary, but in those little niceties which mark a well regulated household. An unfurnished cruet stand, a missing key, a buttonless shirt, a soiled table cloth, a mustard pot with its old contents sticking hard and brown about it, are severally nothing; but each can raise an angry word and cause discomfort. Depend on it, there's a great deal of domestic happiness in a well dressed mutton chop or a tidy breakfast table. Men grow sated of beauty, tired of music, are often too weary for conversation, (however intellectual) but they can always appreciate a well swept hearth and smiling comfort. A woman may love her husband devotedly—may sacrifice fortune, friends, family, country for him—she may have the genius of a Sappo, the enchanting beauties of an Armida; but—melancholy fact—if with these she fail to make his home comfortable, his heart will inevitably escape her. And woman live so entirely in their affections that without love their existence is a void. Better submit, then, to household tasks, however repugnant they may be to your tastes, than doom yourself to a loveless home. Women of a higher order of mind will not run this risk; they know that their feminine, their domestic, are their first duties.

Jaunty Men.

Women of sense do not like this variety of the human species. By "jaunty men" we mean those excessively debonair individuals with a minuet step and a self-satisfied smirk, whose social specialty is an affectation of nonchalance. As a rule your jaunty man wears his hat a little on one side and cultivates a rakish appearance generally. If a handsome woman passes him he generally throws at her, over his shoulder, a glance which he intends to be at once careless and killing, but which is a failure in both respects, being simply pert and presuming. Jaunty men often amble along the fashionable promenade in pairs. In these cases the hats of the twain almost invariably slant in different directions—one being cocked over the right eye, the other over the left. Most of the species are below the middle height, and wear remarkably high-heeled boots. They delight also in vivid tints, and indulge, if nature has been propitious to them in the matter of hair, a good deal of wingy whiskers; and, if their teeth are good, show them frequently. The jaunty man looks as if he thought his "mission" in life was to make an impression, especially upon the ladies, and when they smile at him he supposes them to be smiling on him. So he goes on his dapper way rejoicing—a much-deluded individual. It is utterly impossible for any person with a well constituted mind to respect a jaunty man. As easily might one respect a jumping-jack Fancying himself the glass of fashion and the mould of form, he is, in fact, obtrusively unlike a gentleman—quietude of manner being a cardinal element of true gentility. Jaunty men sometimes tickle the fancy of weak girls, but find no favor with the thinking portion of the sex, who look right through them and gauge them at their true value, which is "less than nothing and vanity."

SMALL TALK.—Of all the expedients to make the heart lean, the brain gauzy, and to thin life down to the consistency of a cambric handkerchief, the most successful is the little talk and tattle which, in some charmed circles, is courteously styled conversation. How human beings can live on such meager fare—how continue existence in such a famine of topics and on such a short allowance of sense—is a great question, if philosophy could only search it out. All we know is that such men and women there are who will go on from fifteen to four score and never a hint on their tombstones that they died at last of consumption of the head and marasmus of the heart. The whole universe of God, spreading out its splendors and terrors, pleading for their attention, and they wonder "where Mrs. Somebody got that divine ribbon to her bonnet?" The whole world of literature, through its thousand trumps of fame, adjuring them to regard its garnered stores of emotion, and they think "It's high time, if John intends to marry Sarah for him to pop the question?" When, to be sure, this frippery is spiced with a little envy and malice, and prepares its dishes of scandal and nice bits of detraction, it becomes endowed with a slight venomous vitality which does pretty well, in the absence of soul, to carry on the machinery of living if not the reality of life.—Whipple.

THE Tidioute Journal tells a story of a dying man at whose request a dance was held the night previous to his decease, in the building which he occupied for the purpose of raising funds to pay for a "decent funeral." There was a great variety as to preservation. Some were pure skeletons, and others were fresh as if just thrown in; and between these two extremes were found all possible stages of decomposition.

PENNSYLVANIA NICKEL.—"It is not generally known," observes the Franklin Repository, "that among the most valuable mineral productions of our State is Nickel, the metal so largely used in the coinage of cents. Fourteen miles from Lancaster are the Gap mines and smelting works. The mines were discovered many years ago, and about the time of the revolutionary war were worked for copper, but were soon abandoned, the crude machinery of that period being ill adapted to working them profitably. Two generations had passed away, and the circumstance had been forgotten, when about fifteen years ago the mines were re-opened by a company of capitalists from Philadelphia, since which they have been steadily worked. They were re-opened with the view of obtaining copper, but the ore was soon discovered to be richer in nickel, a more valuable mineral, and since then they have been worked for that metal exclusively. The introduction of nickel cents by the government, and the war which rendered small change so scarce, gave great impetus to these works. The mines are now owned mainly, we believe, by Joseph Wharton, of Philadelphia. The final working of the nickel ore is done in Camden. In all, about one hundred and fifty men are employed at the mines and smelting works.

Wednesday morning, July 31, 1867.

WM. LEWIS, HUGH LINDSAY, } EDITORS.

☞ A free born negro, bearing the rather indelegant name of Aaron Sweat, living in North Carolina, has announced himself as a candidate for Congress, and is now hard at work among his brethren in complexion.

☞ The Surratt trial is drawing to a close. The case will be given to the jury the latter part of next week, and if the lawyers do not take up too much time in summing up, the trial may be over by the 10th of August.

THE CRAWFORD COUNTY SYSTEM.—The Republican party of Lancaster county at a late Convention, decided to nominate their county ticket by the "Crawford County System" which is by a direct vote of all the voters instead of by "delegates." Other counties are moving in the same direction, to get rid of the corrupt office seekers.

☞ An Anti-Temperance association has been organized in Erie, styled the "Sons of Liberty." They propose to oppose the election of any candidate to the Legislature who is in favor of a license law. Such action as this may call forth a demonstration from the temperance men, which the opposition may find very difficult to overcome.

☞ All the bills passed by Congress at the recent session became laws, except that introduced by Mr. Sumner making negroes eligible for office in the District of Columbia. This bill was delivered to the President one hour before Congress adjourned. He did not return it, and it therefore failed to become a law.

☞ It should not be forgotten at this time that the last Legislature was very corrupt, nor should the Republican journals forget their many professions of seeing that good, honest men be elected. Let us have an honest set of Legislators for Pennsylvania once at least. The way to do this is to select men who are known to be honest, and who are not loud-mouthed in making pledges which in secret they violate.

☞ Tennessee is a troubled State. It is governed by a Parson named Brownlow, who has no respect for the reconstructed rights of the late rebels. The accounts of riots are numerous, and the interference of the military is petitioned to be present at the polls to preserve order and peace. And yet Tennessee is reconstructed to the liking of the Radicals, in having a Radical Governor, and the repeated success of the Republican ticket. If all the Southern States are to be "reconstructed" in the same manner we will have a pandemonium surely.

☞ The Journal & American will have it that we publish a "copperhead" sheet. We would like to please our neighbors but we must most positively decline to associate with them on the dark side of a political question. We have no inclination to follow in the footsteps of Philips, Stevens & Co., or to allow them to use us to accomplish their purpose. When the struggle was for the Union we threw party aside and joined hands with every man who felt with us, and now that the struggle is political power, and to place the colored man on an equal political footing in every respect with the white man, we join hands in opposition.

POLITICAL.—The Republican and Democratic nominating Conventions will meet in Huntingdon first week of August Court. The elections for delegates will be held on the Saturday previous.

Henry S. Wharton is announced in the Journal & American as a candidate for re-election. David Black and Robert McDivitt are also announced as candidates for County Treasurer. We hear also that Henry Graffius of Porter township, will be brought before the Republican Convention for nomination for Assembly. For Senator on the Republican side Lewis W. Hall, Dr. Henry Orlady and Samuel McVitty are named. On the Democratic side R. B. Petrikin and David Caldwell are contesting for the nomination for Senator. The above are all we hear of as candidates, but we suppose there are other men in the county who will not refuse a nomination or an election.

A SLIGHT MISTAKE.—Some of the Southern papers are exceedingly gleeful over a blunder which is said to have been perpetrated by an army officer in Richmond recently. On the 4th of July a party of people went on a picnic, and, as an appropriate exercise for the day, one of the number read the Declaration of Independence. The officer in question, who was not as familiar with the document as he ought to have been, mistook Mr. Jefferson's denunciations of George III. and of the British Parliament, for reflections upon the President and Congress, and ordered the whole party to be arrested. The "unreconstructed rebs" of the vicinity enjoyed the joke immensely, and they were particularly jubilant over the idea of the United States officer mistaking the Declaration of Independence for a treasonable address.

THE population of China is about four hundred millions; that of Japan forty millions more. These two countries contain nearly half the population of the globe.

Who is to be Sold?

Some sharp political manœuvring is going on just now in high political circles. Gen. Grant says he is no party man—that he does not trouble his mind with any of the political notions or questions of the day, and yet he is already spoken of by the majority of the Republican organs throughout the States, as likely to be the candidate for President in the next contest. The Democratic press and politicians make no opposition, and this fact alarms the more radical of the Republican party who are in favor of the nomination of a "representative man"—a man publicly known to be in favor of radicalism and all the radical measures of Congress. If the Republican party accepts Gen. Grant as its candidate it will be because the party is afraid to go before the people with a fair representative man of the party, admitting in the very commencement of the contest that radicalism is unpopular with the people. To our mind the election of Gen. Grant would bring about a very happy result—the destruction of the present corrupt party organizations.

Horace Greeley says Grant's nomination by the New York Republican General Committee was brought about through the influence of Secretary Seward, and therefore should be looked upon as a Democratic movement to cheat the Republican party. The Massachusetts radicals have a committee to follow the General every where to watch what company he keeps, and to report to radical headquarters.

"Worse, and More of It."

Mr. Sumner recently admonished the members of the U. S. Senate that it would be well to prepare their minds for the reception, within the next twelve months or so, of a sprinkling of Senators of African descent from Southern States. Many Republicans will assert that such an event will never occur. But what will be their wonder when such is the case within the time specified. Judging from the signs of the times in the South, we think it cannot be avoided, unless the Radicals lose the power which they are so rapidly gaining by the accumulation of black voters. The Radicals appeal to the colored Southerners whose votes are to save them, and what more can we expect than what we in the last campaign predicted—that if the colored man was allowed to vote he must be also allowed to hold office. The colored man is being taught by the boldor Radicals that he should not give his votes and receive no reward. They will ask for the offices, and they will have no hesitation in asking for the highest offices in the gift of the American people. If the Republicans seek their votes, they will expect offices from the hands of the Republicans, and in order to keep power, the Republicans will share the "loaves and fishes" of office with them; and in that event the "sprinkling" referred to by Sumner will be noticed in the two chambers of Congress.

Mr. Stevens Gives it up.

Thaddeus Stevens, in the course of a debate in the House on Friday last, admitted that the President cannot be impeached by the present Congress. He gives up the job in the following language:

We cannot impeach the President of the United States. But I say to our friends on this side who are urging that measure, that they are urging it in vain. The result of my motion the other day clearly disclosed that. And, without attempting to make disclosures, I undertake to say that there are unseen agencies at work, there are invisible powers at work in this country which will prevent the impeachment of the President.

I have taken some pains to understand the composition of the House and the composition of the Senate, and I am quite certain that there are enough of persons in the House, firstly, to prevent the presentation of articles of impeachment; and, secondly, that there are enough persons in the Senate, if articles of impeachment were voted, to prevent the conviction of the President; so that, I repeat, an attempt to impeach the President will be vain and futile. It is impossible to pierce the panoply which surrounds the White House.

Those members who have been so fierce for impeaching the President have got themselves into a disagreeable position. They have led the country to expect great things in the way of evidence against the President, and have taken a ton or two of testimony, which, according to Mr. Stevens, amounts to nothing.

THE New York whisky dealers are getting up a grand demonstration against the Sunday and Prohibitory laws, preparatory to a more forcible resistance of them. The great banner which is to go at the head of the procession, and the smaller badges, bear a representation of Christ, blessing the wine at Cana. This sublime conception could only come from Mr. Wilkes, who is the head and front of the new movement, as very few of his present followers ever heard of Christ. The whisky dealers of New York, carrying a banner with Christ blessing wine painted upon it, and George Wilkes riding at the head, would be a spectacle almost as imposing as the London rioters when Lord George Gordon commanded.

☞ A curious story is current that General Grant recently discovered that his movements were watched by a detective who had been persistently following him, and who, it is further reported, is employed by a Massachusetts politician in Washington. The detective, on being questioned by the General, said he was hunting up testimony for a Congressional Committee.

☞ The National Union State Central Committee held a meeting at the Girard House, Philadelphia, on Tuesday of last week. The following resolutions were unanimously adopted by the committee:

Whereas, the present condition of the country, in all its relations, respecting its nationality and constitutional obligation, fills the minds of all patriotic citizens with just anxiety and apprehension, and that the future welfare and permanent continuance of republican institutions call imperatively for early, earnest and concentrated action upon the part of the people, to aid to save and preserve the grand and glorious ideas upon which the government of the United States was originally based and founded; therefore be it

Resolved, That a close and strict adherence, and honest obedience to the Constitution of a common country is the surest protection to liberty and the safest and best established guarantee that in these "old forms and time honored doctrines and opinions" the rights of all men are most securely confided and best maintained.

Resolved, That the wise, consistent and patriotic action of Andrew Johnson, our worthy President, in his efforts to stay the march of radicalism, either in the North or South, and his unselfish endeavors to preserve the Constitution, to restore the unity of the States, and to secure to all the people of a common country the rights which the madness and crimes of a few desperate men have involved in doubt or placed in jeopardy, demands the most earnest and thorough regard and support of the people. That the bold and intrepid conduct of the President in the entire contest with Congress furnishes evidences of the truthfulness and value of constitutional liberty.

Resolved, That the health of republican institutions, the continuity of the same, and an assurance that with us all people of all nations may safely and happily find an abiding place and home, depend upon the honest and faithful preservation of our Constitution.

Resolved, That the action of the present and late Congress, representing less than one-third of the population of the United States, in their efforts to keep our country distracted and divided, our Constitution and its guarantees of rights to States and people suspended, indicate a disposition to establish a central despotism, to be lodged in one department of government, equally destructive of rational liberty in these States demanding the stern rebuke of every lover of his country.

Resolved, That in order to bring these great truths before the people, and to place before them an exposition of their principles, it is recommended to the citizens of the several counties in their several election districts, to meet together and elect proper representatives to a convention of the counties and States, to place candidates before the country to carry these views into effect.

Resolved, That our thanks are due to the members of the Senate and House of Representatives of the last and present Congress, who have sustained and by their votes defended the President in his honest endeavors to maintain and preserve the dignity of the Union of the American nation, and the maintenance of its supreme law, the glorious Constitution of Washington and his compeers of the revolution.

The liberties of the people are at stake, the Constitution is to be preserved, the Union of the States is to be restored, the supremacy of races is to be established and continued; an hour may be more productive of results than years of labor hereafter. The National Union party appeal to the country to unite in a great effort to arrest the tyranny and oligarchism which has characterized the late and present Congress, and which demands undivided condemnation at the hands of good citizens.

New Jersey and the Suffrage Question

The Republican State Convention of New Jersey, at Trenton, Tuesday, adopted a lengthy address to the Republicans of the State on the subject of universal suffrage and the striking of the word "white" from the constitution. Among the resolutions adopted were the following:

Resolved, That pledging ourselves for the eradication of the word "white" from the constitution of New Jersey by every legal and honorable means, we also call upon Congress to take measures to induce or compel all the States of the Union to establish a just and uniform rule of suffrage, excluding all distinctions of class, and race and color, so that the citizens of each State shall be entitled to all privileges and immunities of citizens in the several States, and the United States shall redeem its original promise to guarantee to every State in the Union a republican form of government.

Resolved, That this doctrine of the absolute equality of all men before the law, of which impartial suffrage is a necessary corollary, is in strict accordance with that sublime declaration of the fathers of the Republic, that "All men are created equal," which was and is the corner-stone of all our democratic institutions.

Resolved, That by our action this day, we intend heartily to indorse the votes of Senators and Representatives in Congress, in favor of securing impartial suffrage to the people of the States lately in rebellion, and to repudiate the charge that we are willing to impose upon others a fundamental principle of government which we are not prepared to accept for ourselves.

WEAKENED VISION FROM TOBACCO SMOKING.—In some cases the impairment of vision which goes by the name of amblyopia procedes its entire loss, from palsy of the optic nerve. Objects are perceived but imperfectly; they appear more or less obscured by cloud or haziness; the letters of a book run into each other and become confused; the eye is soon tired, and waters or becomes bloodshot if exertion is continued. M. Varidin has reported three cases of this disease caused from smoking. In the treatment of these cases the quantity of tobacco smoked was reduced, under the direction of M. Viardia, and the sight was restored in the course of a few weeks. He must be a very slave to the use of the weed who, having once recovered from its poisoning effects, would persist in the habit.

Affairs in Tennessee—Brownlow's Rule.

The proposal of ultra radicals to subject the constitutions of Maryland and Kentucky to Congressional revision, under the pretense of providing therefore a republican form of Government, invests with interest all that relates to the political condition of Tennessee, where Brownlow is carrying out their theories to perfection.

To the knowledge possessed by the public on this subject a correspondent yesterday furnished a noteworthy addition. The writer of the letter is a citizen of Tennessee, a consistent friend of the Union cause, and a man whose statements are worthy of the fullest credence. There is nothing in them absolutely novel; they reiterate representations which have been received from other sources, and the literal truth of which can no longer be doubted. The letter, however, throws additional light upon some points which have not been properly appreciated, and illustrates the approach of a crisis which Brownlow's lust for power seems on the eve of precipitating upon the State.

What republican government in Tennessee amounts to is plainly shown in the means which Brownlow is employing to insure success for himself and friend in the next election. The system of proscription which he has instituted has culminated in the disfranchisement of over four-fifths of the white men of the State; and still it is pushed further wherever there is danger of a Brownlow defeat. In some counties the white voters are fewer in number than the offices to be filled. In others, the Governor is availing himself of a law enacted by his creatures in the Legislature by which he is empowered at pleasure to set aside the registration where it is unsatisfactory, and to appoint a new Registrar with the view of making matters more agreeable. Thus adverse majorities are overcome by a short and simple process, enabling the government to disfranchise all who withhold from him support.

This extraordinary power he is exercising to an extent that renders the holding of an election a farce, the regular registration under the law being set aside, and a new registration made under the direction of Brownlow's agents. Even the candidates in some places officiate as registrars and prepare the lists of those who shall vote, a shameless substitute for the old method of ballot-stuffing. Where the affinities of the citizen are not known the certificate of a regular Brownlow man is required, and the result is the whole sale exclusion of loyalists, tried and true, as well as of former Rebels. Nay, the latter sometimes fare better than the former, as a circumstance mentioned by our correspondent proves. An anti-Brownlow Unionist, who served as a Federal officer during the war, has in one instance been required to procure the indorsation of a Rebel Colonel who happens now to be on Brownlow's side.

The effect of the condition of affairs upon the white people of the State may be conceived. We have but to suppose ourselves in the position of four fifths of the white Tennesseeans—including a majority of original and steadfast Unionists—to judge of the anger and indignation which the course of the Brownlow faction is everywhere exciting. It is not surprising that fears of extended trouble are entertained, or that conflicts on a small scale continually occur during the progress of the canvass. Infinitely more astonishing would it be if the outrages perpetrated by the party of extremists who seek to intrench themselves pemanently in power, were permitted to pass wholly unresented. The pretenses under which they are perpetrated add to their enormity. A band of outlaws holding the offices of the State, and trying by force and fraud to keep them, would be a spectacle sad enough in all conscience. Here, however, we have usurpation, tyranny, injustice, and crime carried on in the name of loyalty and Union, with former Rebels, now in the Brownlow interest, helping to commit them, and thousands of faithful Unionists among the victims.

To make matters yet worse, the same disregard of principle which marks the conduct of the ruling faction in regard to registration and disfranchisement, governs their appeals to the negro element. The four-fifths of the whites who worship not Brownlow are held up to the blacks as enemies who must be kept down—as possessors of property which the blacks may righteously appropriate. The bitterness of a partisan contest is, therefore, intensified by the passions incident to an antagonism of races. The two causes, combined, are rapidly reducing the State to a condition compared with which that of the people of Georgia or Mississippi is superlative bliss. Instead of wondering at the bad blood, of which all accounts from Tennessee speak, rather let us wonder at the patience that prevails and the respect for order which the leaders opposed to Brownlow enjoin upon their supporters.

Unless a change come, and that speedily, interference of some sort will be called for to rescue Tennessee from the faction that dominates over and disgraces it, and to institute reconstruction after the fashion of the military government plan. Certainly, neither Maryland nor Kentucky affords a hundredth part of justification for interference which Tennessee presents, whether considered in reference to wrongs done or the legitimacy of the wrong doers. The unconstitutionality and illegality which attached to the organization of the ten Government now termed "provisional," also taint the foundation of the present Government of Tennessee. We see no method of purging it of the foul humors which find vent in the Brownlow regime except that of reconstruction from without. Let the wants of Tennessee be remembered when help for Maryland and Kentucky is invoked.

The Trial of Surratt.

On Monday Rev. Charles Boucher, of Canada, testified that Surratt was concealed in his house for three months after the assassination and previous to his departure for Europe. He also stated that he considered the character of Dr. McMillan very bad, and there was a number of persons who would not believe him under oath. The examination of this witness closed the direct testimony for the defence, and the prosecution commenced the rebuttal. It was shown by several witnesses that about the middle of the month of April, 1865, the trains did not run regularly between Canandaigua and Elmira on account of the floods. Maurey Drohan, who had charge of the ferry-boat at Williamsport, testified that he took the prisoner across the river at that place sometime in April, 1865.

On Tuesday the counsel for the prosecution offered in evidence some papers which had been mentioned by witnesses as having a bearing on the case. Attachments were issued for witnesses who had refused to attend. A number of witnesses testified in regard to the running of trains on the Philadelphia and Erie Railroad. The good character of Dr. McMillan was testified to. Charles H. Blim testified that Detective Halloban did not lose the handkerchief with Surratt's name upon it. Witnesses were examined in regard to the characters of S. F. Cameron and John T. Tippetis.

On Wednesday testimony was taken in regard to the good and bad character of witnesses. Col. Stewart, who was at the theatre when the assassination took place, testified that the atmosphere was hazy, but that the moon was sufficiently bright for him to see Booth as he mounted his horse.

On Thursday the character of Dr. Bissell, a witness for the defence, was shown to be very bad. Considerable time was occupied in determining the running time on the Pennsylvania Railroad, and a long argument took place between counsel in regard to the admissibility of certain evidence. The counsel for the defence offered to submit the case to the jury without argument but the prosecution objected.

On Friday Judge Fisher read a lengthy decision refusing to allow the evidence regarding the running of the trains between Washington and New York to be stricken out. The testimony in regard to the telegraphic communication between Washington and Elmira was also declared admissible. Several witnesses testified that the character of Dr. Bissell was very bad, and an equal number declared that it was very good. The counsel then proceeded to discuss the motions to strike out certain testimony, and during the arguments the jury were allowed to return to their hotel.

On Saturday the examination of witnesses closed. Mr. Carrington, District Attorney, opened the argument.

The Indian War.

A. K. McClure says: "I have been on the plains since the 6th of May, and I deem it as due to truth to say that to the obstinacy or imbecility of military managements we are indebted for the crimsoned record the overland route presents this year. The government did everything that could have been asked in furnishing men, but until this day there has been no practical use made of the thousands of troops, now nearly as large on the plains as Sherman required to march against a powerful and well commanded foe from Chattanooga to Atlanta.

"I do not know who is to blame for the wasteful expenditure of money in the character of troops sent to contend with Indians. I believe that not more than one-fourth of the force west of the Mississippi is cavalry, while fully one-half of it should be mounted in the West. First of all, the troops should be taken from the far West, as the people of the Territories understand the Indian character, cherish the intensest hatred toward them, and will fight them 'until they can't rest,' to use a favorite western saying. On the other hand, the regulars prefer any sort of warfare to Indian warfare. They both despise and fear the savages, and fight them only when they cannot avoid it. They have deserted until many regiments are reduced thirty per cent, and in some instances, it is believed, have joined the Indians in plundering trains. Certain it is that the marks of white men have been detected in a number of the raids upon the ranches and stations. Our American horses, on which the cavalrymen are mounted, are utterly unfit for Indian campaigns. They are heavy, sluggish, and cannot march a week without grain, while the Indian pony and broncho will travel all the summer on prairie grass, and out strip even a well fed American charger. One thousand men from Colorado, Nebraska, or Montana, mounted on such horses as they would select, would be worth double their number of regular troops mounted as is our regular cavalry. It seems to me impossible that these facts, which are so patent to every western man, have not been pressed upon the military authorities, and if so, upon whom does this costly, bloody blunder rest?"

The noble deeds of robin red breast have been celebrated for generations in both song and story, and the tender sympathy which this bird is supposed to feel for stray babes has gained for it the highest opinion of the occupants of the nursery. A painful little circumstance, which will interest our young readers, and at the same time serve to confirm their regard for the robin, was brought to light after the fire at the residence of Mr. M'Callum, a week or two ago. In a tree near by, a robin built her nest, and hatched her brood. The birdlings were too young to fly, and although the flames progressed, and the heat became more intense, the mother bird refused to forsake her nest, and perished in her efforts to protect her little ones from harm. The nest was afterwards discovered, and the parent bird was found, with her little brood still under her, but all were dead. What a wonderful instinct has the Creator bestowed upon this little creature, that would impel it thus to sacrifice its own life, in a manner so peculiarly painful, in its efforts to shield the helpless little ones committed to its charge! Sure, many men and women might learn a lesson of wisdom from this martyr bird.

BLACK ANGELS.—A short time before the French Revolution the mania for liberty was manifested many times by the excessive protection given to the negroes.

Among the favorites of this color was one young fellow who enjoyed the reputation of being a good artist. Bonaparte, being First Consul, the negro came one day to ask his protection in regard to a picture which he wished to place before the public, but it had been criticised so much that he dare not show it without the favor and sanction of the Consul. Bonaparte manifested a desire to see it, and it was accordingly brought into his presence.

The painting represented the Eternal Father, the Virgin and the Son of God, surrounded by angels, but all were black! At seeing it Bonaparte was unable to contain himself, and burst into a loud laugh. The artist vindicated himself, saying:

"The whites believe that a black skin is a mark of infamy by which the descendants of Cain are condemned; we, on the contrary, believe that the white skin was given to men as a curse. You believe that God and the angels are white, and why should we not believe that they are black?"

"You have an indisputable right to make them so, and to paint as many black angels as you choose," replied the Consul; "but, when they are completed, the best use you can make of them is to send them to the island of St. Domingo."

☞ Mr. Greeley, in an article in the Independent this week, descriptive of a recent visit to Niagara, says: "Of the grand sights I have enjoyed—Rome from the dome of St. Peter's—Italy from the southern brow of Mount Cenis—the Alps from the valley of Lake Como—Mont Blanc and her glaciers from Chamony—Niagara—and the Yosemite—I judge the last named the most unique and stupendous. It is a partially wooded gorge, 100 to 300 rods wide, and 3,000 to 4,000 feet deep between almost perpendicular walls of gray granite, and here and there a dark yellow pine rooted in a crevice of either wall, and clinging with desperate tenacity to its dizzy elevation. The isolation of the Yosemite—the absolute wildness of its sylvan solitudes, many miles from human settlement or cultivation—its cascade 2,000 feet high, though the stream which makes this leap has worn a channel in the hard bed rock to a depth of 1,000 feet—renders it the grandest marvel that ever met my gaze. Next to Yosemite, I judge that Niagara has more distinct and diverse attributes of sublimity than any other. Its volume is so vast that its height is dwarfed when measured by the eye along. You do not believe that it can be 150 feet from the surface below the fall till you have given your apprehension time to expand and adjust itself to the grand proportions of the scene."

☞ At New Albany, Ind., a very singular and fatal decease is prevailing to some extent among the chickens. The chicken is suddenly attacked by this disease, and at the moment when the attack occurs will spring straight up into the air two or three feet and fall helpless to the ground. The head and neck is cramped and rests upon the back, and thus remains until the fowl dies, which it generally does in from five to ten minutes. The legs of the chickens attacked are also much contracted by cramp. Persons have lost as high as forty and fifty chickens by this disease in a single week. Very often from half a dozen to a dozen will be found of a morning lying dead under their roosts.

A GYPSY FUNERAL.—A singular trait of the gypsies is reported by the Dayton Journal. It seems that some years ago a man named Stanley, the king of the tribe in this country, was buried in great state in the Woodland Cemetery. Since then, no matter where a member of the tribe in this country has died, the remains have been conveyed to the same place for interment. Last fall and winter four children of the tribe died in Texas, and the remains were sent to the vault in Woodland, until a sufficient delegation of the tribe could be gathered to celebrate the ceremonies properly. The Dayton Journal speaks very well of the conduct of the gypsies in that neighborhood.

Brief Items.

—The Cambria Freeman has donned a new head, and been enlarged to a seven column paper. We are pleased to note this evidence of success of a live and lively paper.

—A man named Handlin attempted to break from the Hollidaysburg jail by setting fire to his room. The flames were discovered before making much headway.

—There were about twenty-five emigrants from the "fader-land" stopped off here on Sunday last, with the intention of making their homes and seeking their fortunes amongst us.

—The Methodist Church of this place is being repaired. A full set of window blinds are being made, which will add to the beauty of the interior of the building.

—Mr. Jas. F. Campbell, formerly editor of the Johnstown Democrat, together with F. S. Rock, of Greensburg, have purchased the office of the Uniontown Genius of Liberty, for five thousand six hundred and fifty dollars.

—Pic-nics are the order of the day. The Lutheran Sunday School will hold one on Thursday next, the German Reformed Sunday School on Saturday next, and Standing Stone Lodge, I. O. of G. T. will hold one on Friday the 9th of August.

—The wheel shop at Altoona, a frame building belonging to the Pennsylvania railroad company, caught fire about three o'clock on Thursday morning, and was so much damaged as to make a new building requisite. The fire is supposed to have originated in the oil and waste used within the building. The damage to the tools and machinery was trifling.

—A man named James Arthours was killed on the Pennsylvania Railroad, at Bell's Mills station, Blair county, on Wednesday last. He was carrying a bag across the track, when a freight train going east came along, striking him, breaking some of his ribs and injuring him so severely about the head as to cause his death almost instantly.

—Maria Young, of Blair county, who was arrested on the charge of poisoning her father, has been acquitted. It has been found after a careful examination of the stomach of the deceased and its contents, that there was no evidence of either mineral or vegetable poison. This examination was conducted by Prof. R E. Rodgers, of Philadelphia.

—The quantity of borries gathered this year is beyond precedent. Those who avail themselves of the opportunity to pick them, (and they are not a few,) come back fully rewarded for their pains. The whortleberry or huckleberry crop also promises well. We wouldn't object if our friends in town or country would send us a basket or two to put down with care.

—We have an idea that there are more events of local interest transpiring, throughout our county, than we ever get to hear of, but which we look for correspondents to communicate to us. If local correspondents only knew in what esteem they are held by editors of country newspapers, they would not be so backward in sending in the items. Will somebody try it.

—The acknowledged organ of fashionable society in our country, the Home Journal, says "the handsomest lady in America is Miss Emily Schonberg, of Philadelphia." There are a number of young damsels in Huntingdon, from "sweet sixteen" upwards, ready to contest the palm of beauty with Miss Emily, or any other Philadelphia lass, and we would advise the editor of the Home Journal to give our town a call before becoming too certain.

—The Boom Company of Williamsport, Pa., are at work upon a magnificent boom, the cost of which will be $100,000. It is 1000 feet long, with a shute of 500 feet, and will be finished within three months. A. A. Cohill, Esq., late Supervisor on the Pennsylvania canal, is in charge of this improvement. Mr. Cohill is a resident of this place, and judging from a specimen of a lock below town, the construction of which he superintended, he is just the man to give satisfaction by neat and good workmanship.

—A crazy man made his appearance on our streets one day last week, and drew the attention of the public by ringing a bell. He went through town, and on reaching the bridge over Stone Creek, he was surrounded by a crowd of mischievous boys, who tormented him until he turned on them, and threw a stone amongst them, which struck a son of Henry Honstein on the head, and inflicted a painful cut. Boys should not torment either drunken or crazy men, or else they may rue the consequences.

☞ A Camp Meeting for Manor Hill Circuit, will be held at the regular camp ground, at Cave Hollow, commencing August 23d. A boarding tent will be kept as usual. Members of the Church from neighboring charges desiring tenting ground, will address J. A. DeMoyer, at Manor Hill, P. O.

County Temperance Union.

A call, signed by some of our prominent citizens, has been issued, which earnestly invites all the churches, seminaries, academies, and all the temperance organizations to meet by delegates in convention, in Huntingdon, on the 12th of August, (Monday,) at 2 o'clock P. M., for the purpose of forming a Huntingdon County Temperance Union, and to consult and devise plans for the promotion of the cause of temperance in the said county.

We hope to see a full representation from all the institutions named, and a good turn-out of the friends of temperance generally, in order that the Union may be formed on a permanent basis, and the cause of temperance in this county may receive a new impetus, and be so organized as to overcome all opposition and demand and obtain that which is just and reasonable.

Slackwater.

Some preliminary measures have been taken with a view of adapting the Juniata to slackwater navigation. There is certainly nothing in the road to prevent this from being carried out, as the fall of water from the Newton Hamilton dam down is quite regular, and from thence to Huntingdon but little difficulty would be encountered. Such a change would soon create steam navigation, and present a sight few ever anticipated on the "Blue Juniata." It has always appeared to us that a channel for light draught boats—such as are used on the Ohio—could be made at a comparatively small expense, by removing rocks and stones for a breadth of 50 or 100 feet, as although in many places the river appears quite shallow to the eye, the real depth on the riffles is never less than from one to two feet, as any one can test by an attempt at wading, and in most places much more. Many boats on the Ohio draw only about 20 inches, so that navigation here is not so unfavorable as some imagine, for it is evident that if even a channel, such as we speak of, were cleaned out, a flat bottom steamer could make its way from Duncan's Island to the old Aughwick Falls at the present stage of water without difficulty.—Lewistown Gazette.

Fatal Results of Intemperance.

A man named Peter Batto died on the Philadelphia express train bound west, on the Pennsylvania Railroad, when near Altoona, on Tuesday last. The deceased resided at Memphis, Tennessee, and some time ago left home intending to take a trip to Europe. When he arrived at New York he commenced drinking very hard, and was intoxicated for several days. He was arrested by the police and committed to prison on Blackwell's Island for sixty days for vagrancy. His friends at Memphis, hearing of his imprisonment, sent a gentleman to New York for him, who succeeded in having him released. Shortly after his imprisonment the deceased took violently ill, and was quite bad when he was released. The gentleman who secured his release started with him on his return home to Memphis, and had reached as far as Altoona, Pa., when Batto died, as stated. The train arrived at Pittsburg, on Tuesday evening, where the body was embalmed, placed in a coffin, and taken on Wednesday morning to Memphis.

A Foundling.

On Friday, about the time of the departure of the 1 o'clock P. M., train for Hagerstown, a child, apparently about three weeks old, was discovered in an out-house attached to the Cumberland Valley Depot. Suspicion at once rested on two women who had come on the train from Greencastle in the morning, having with them a child, as being the parties who had thus inhumanly deserted the child to the mercies of the public, one of whom was on the train returning. The train having started it was signalled and stopped, when the woman was arrested. She at first denied all knowledge of the child, but finally acknowledged that it belonged to the other woman, who she said hailed from Huntingdon, Pa, and was at present stopping at a house up town. The reputed mother of the child was hunted up, and owned the child as hers, and it was handed over to her.—Chambersburg Repository.

A Supposed Counterfeiter Arrested.

On the morning of the 19th, the U. S. Detectives arrested at Altoona a man named Wm. Johnston, proprietor of a livery stable in Altoona, but a resident of Hollidaysburg, charged with being extensively engaged in "shoving" counterfeit money. The information was made before U. S. Commissioner M'Candles, of Pittsburg, and the accused was removed to that city the same day for a hearing. Johnston is well known, and is in independent circumstances. He has been suspected for some time of being engaged in passing counterfeit postal currency, and has been under the surveillance of detectives In April last, one of the officers introduced himself to Johnston, and, representing himself as a "shover," bought from him, as is alleged, one hundred dollars in counterfeit fifty-cent notes. Sufficient information was obtained against him at the time to have warranted his immediate arrest, but it was deemed advisable to allow him to run at large till the day above stated.

Painful Accident.

On Tuesday morning last a young girl, named Amanda Dearmitt, living at Mr. —— Major's, corner of Church and Montgomery streets, was terribly scalded by the upsetting of a boiler of hot water, which she had taken off the stove and placed on the top of the steps leading into the wash-house. Having occasion to pass the boiler, she stumbled over some obstacle near it and fell, her dress at the same time catching in the handle, which spilled the boiling contents over her back and shoulders the entire length. She suffered terribly from the scald, but we understand is now rapidly getting better.

A Rascal.

We understand that a man representing himself as a drover played the smart over Mr. Lewis Smalley on Saturday last a week. After being shown around the country and engaging cattle and sheep he picked Mr. Smalley's pocket of $30. He had previously borrowed $5 and travelling expenses from Mr. Smalley, amounting in all to $48,-75. The scamp left Mill Creek on the express train on Saturday night, since which time nothing has been heard of the "drover" or Mr. Smalley's money.

Dedication.

The dedication of the new Methodist Church, erected on the site of what is generally known as the "Old Trough Creek Church," in Tod township, will take place on Saturday and Sunday next. Rev. Dr. Riley, of the East Baltimore Conference, and other eminent speakers and divines are expected to be in attendance. The public are cordially invited to attend.

Temperance in Congress.

"Ten minute Speeches" by Hons. Schuyler Colfax, Henry Wilson, R. Yates, Wm. E. Dodge, Hiram Price, Samuel McKee, F. E. Woodbridge, J. B. Grinnell, and J. W. Patterson, delivered at the first meeting of the Congressional Temperance Society, Washington, D. C. With a list of Pledged members. New York; S. R. Wells, Publisher, 389 Broadway, New York. Price, 25 cents.

"Ten Minute Speeches," or "Temperance in Congress," is beautifully printed on tinted paper, in large, clear letter, and is in every way worthy of the great occasion which called it forth. We would have a copy placed in the hands of every young man in the nation. It would serve to fortify him in resisting temptation, which will sooner or later beset him. Walled in with the best resolutions he is still liable to fall. This concentrated and powerful appeal will help such a one to keep his resolutions, and must produce conviction in the heart of the skeptic, and hold the convert. Reader place a copy of "Temperance in Congress" in the hands of the one you love best.

BEALE'S

Late Powell's Embrocation,

For all Diseases Incident to HORSES, CATTLE, and the HUMAN FLESH, Requiring the use of an External Application.

This new Compound, prepared by a practical Chemist having a full knowledge of all the medical virtues of each ingredient that enters into its composition, is warranted to exceed anything of the kind ever yet offered to the Public as an external application for the diseases for which is is recommended. We are satisfied that it will work its own road into the confidence of all who use it, and those who try it once will never be without it, and therefore we rely on experience as the best test of its usefulness. It is pronounced by Farriers, and all who have tried it to be the best application ever used. This Embrocation has been put up for over eight years, and it is only through the increasing demand and urgent request of my friends and the Public that I send it forth as the grand remedial agent for the various diseases to which that noble and useful animal, the horse, is subject

Many remedies have been offered to the Public under different forms, some of these are injurious, others at best of little use, and many wholly improper to answer the purposes for which they are recommended.

A judicious and really useful composition, free from those objections, has therefore long been desired by many gentlemen who have valuable horses, and are unwilling to trust them to the care of designing and pretended Farriers. Their wishes are at length fully gratified, by Dr. Beale being prevailed upon to allow this valuable Embrocation (which has proved so efficacious to the various diseases) to be prepared and brought out to the public.

This Embrocation was extensively used by the Government during the war.

Address all Orders to DR. EDMUND BEALE, 602 South Second Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

For sale at Lewis' Book Store, and by Store keepers generally. may 1, '67-6m.

LATEST FASHIONS DEMAND

J. W. Bradley's Celebrated Patent

Duplex Elliptic

or Double Spring,

SKIRT.

The wonderful Flexibility and great comfort and pleasure to any lady wearing the Duplex Elliptic Skirt will be experienced particularly in all crowded assemblies, operas, carriages, railroad cars, church pews, arm chairs, for promenade and house dress, as the skirt can be folded when in use to occupy a small place as easily and conveniently as a silk or muslin dress, an invaluable quality in crinoline, not found in any single spring skirt.

A lady having enjoyed the pleasure, comfort, and great convenience of wearing the duplex elliptic steel spring skirt for a single day, will never afterwards willingly dispense with their use. For children, misses and young ladies they are superior to all others.

They will not bend or break like the single spring but will preserve their perfect and graceful shape when three or four ordinary skirts will have been thrown aside as useless. The hoops are covered with double and twisted thread, and the bottom rods are not only double springs, but twice (or double) covered; preventing them from wearing out when dragging down stoops, stairs, &c.

The Duplex Elliptic is a great favorite with all ladies and is universally recommended by the Fashion Magazines as the standard skirt of the fashionable world.

To enjoy the following inestimable advantages in crinoline, viz: superior quality, perfect manufacture, stylish shape and finish, flexibility, durability, comfort and economy, enquire for J. W. Bradley's Duplex Elliptic, or double spring skirt, and be sure you get the genuine article.

CAUTION!—To guard against imposition be particular to notice that skirts offered as "Duplex" have the red ink stamp, viz: "J. W. Bradley's Duplex Elliptic Steel Springs" upon the waist band—none others are genuine. Also notice that every hoop will admit a pin being passed through the centre, thus revealing the two (or double) springs braided together therein, which is the secret of their flexibility and strength, and a combination not to be found in any other springs.

For sale in all stores where first class skirts are sold throughout the United States and elsewhere.

Manufactured by the sole owners of the patent.

MEDICAL ELECTRICITY

BY

DR. WILLIAM BREWSTER,

M'CONNELLSTOWN, PA.

For the benefit of those proposing to undertake Electrical treatment for diseases we give in the following list a few of the more prominent and most common complaints met with in our practice, in all of which we are most successful. In NEARLY ALL CASES OF CHRONIC DISEASE, ELECTRICITY IS A SURE REMEDY, AND IN ALL CASES BENEFICIAL IF PROPERLY APPLIED. These, therefore, afflicted with complaints not here enumerated, need have no hesitation in applying, and whether only RELIEF, or a PERMANENT CURE can be effected, they will receive replies accordingly. Thoughts for the Farmer.

Rotation of Crops.

The importance of a rotation of crops is indeed a subject of vast moment to the agriculturist. De Dondolle has advanced the theory and has supported it by strong argument, that of the nutriment which all plants receive and digest, they exude an inconsumable or unnutritive portion by their roots, and that this excrementitious matter unfits or poisons the soil for a second crop of the same kind until it is either consumed or neutralized by cultivation; this very matter, however, proving nutritious to other or different kinds of plants.

From this he argues that one crop of grain should not be succeeded by another of the same description, wheat after wheat, oats after oats, &c., &c.; nor, reasoning from analogy, ought wheat to follows oats, as they are too nearly allied in their natures, and are supposed to feed on the same pabulum, both also coveting the same description of soil—that which is cool and rather heavy.

The above fact will account for the fact that the clover crop often fails when sown for a long succession upon the same soil. Fibrous rooted plants are always best followed by tap rooted ones—plants raised for their tops or grain may be best succeeded by those cultivated for their roots, and the reverse. From attention to these facts arises the incalculably profitable system of "turnip husbandry" in England, by which they are enabled to raise crops of grain of the finest quality in almost if not quite double the quantity, and at the same time carrying forward the improvement of the soil to an almost indefinite extent, to which may be added the means of supporting double the amount of stock by introducing the different varieties of roots, green crops for soiling forming a link in a system by which the farmer is enabled to pay, in rent, tithes and taxes which in almost every other country would be found insupportable.

It is a change of crops we want and not a rest for the land, and I sincerely believe that we should be relieved from one-half the evils which now assail us in the shape of blight, smut, rust, mildew, rot and a dozen others, whose names would then be forgotten— a healthy crop being mostly proofagainst this host of pestilence. And such a crop usually springs from a well cultivated soil, not however made rich by the immediate application of large quantities of rich manure, for valuable as these may be in forcing on green crops to be mown for hay or fodder, I am convinced that they are of injury to the production of all kinds of grain.

Nor are these remarks alone applicable to the farm or farm crop, but also quite as applicable to the garden, where a careful attention to the rules of rotation will greatly increase the crops both in quantity and quality, as I have proven in my own case.—Ger. Telegraph.

☞ An exchange says that the best gardeners in France are in the habit of cutting off the stem of the tomato plants down to the first cluster of flowers that appear thereupon. This impels the sap into the two buds next below the cluster, which soon push strongly, and produce another cluster of flowers each. When these are visible the branch to which they belong is also topped down to their level; and this done five times successively. By this is means the plants become stout dwraf bushes not over eighteen inches high. In order to prevent them from falling over, sticks or strings are placed horizontally along the rows so as to keep the plants erect. In addition to this all the laterals that have no flowers, and, after topping, all laterals whatsoever, are nipped off. In this way the ripe sap is directed into the fruit, which acquires a beauty, size and excellence unattainable by other means It will be well for our friends to try this simple and rational method the present season.

FACTS IN FRUIT CULTURE.—Dr. Trimble, of Newark, who has paid great attention to fruit culture, gives the following as his views, the result of many years experience:

1. That the most successful way to conquer the curculio is to gather the fruit as it falls and feed it to stock or destroy it, as it is by this fallen fruit that the curculio propagates its species.

2. That the fruit of the apple tree can be protected from the apple tree moth by wrapping around each tree two or three times a rope made of straw. The moths will harbor in this rope and can then be destroyed.

3. That the only way to kill the peach tree borer is to cut him out with a knife, not once only in a season, but to follow him up every two weeks until exterminated. After the first "going over" of an orchard this will be little or no trouble, as each tree can be attended to in two minutes.

☞ Mr. L. Morton informs the Rural American that when his cows trouble him by holding their milk, he reaches his hand up and places the ends of his fingers on the back bone, forward of the hips, and presses down hard for a minute or so, and they will always give down.

PROF. J. H. M'ENTYRE'S GREAT REMEDY,

THE

INDIAN COMPOUND

Internal and External Medicine,

WILL CURE:

☞ Diarrhœa, Bloody Flux in one day,
☞ Headache and Earache in three minutes.
☞ Toothache in one minute.
☞ Neuralgia in five minutes,
☞ Sprains in twenty minutes,
☞ Sore Throat in ten minutes,
☞ Cholic and Cramp in five minutes,
☞ Rheumatism in one day,
☞ Pain in the Back or Side in ten minutes,
☞ Bad Coughs or Colds in one day,
☞ Fever and Ague in one day.
☞ Cures Deafness, Asthma, Piles,
☞ Bronchitis Affections, Dyspepsia,
☞ Inflammation of the Kidneys, Erysipelas,
☞ Liver Complaint and Palpitation of the Heart.

Keep it in your Families—Sickness comes when least expected.

I propose to check, and effectually dissipate more ache and pain, and to accomplish more perfect equilibrium of all the circulating fluids in the human system, than can be effected by any other, or all other methods of medical aid in the same space of time.

THIS POPULAR REMEDY is fast coming into use, for the fact that I cure, free of charge, all those complaints whenever there is an opportunity to do so. As soon as it is applied it almost miraculously kills the pain. I do not propose to any certain quantity of its efficiency. If you have an ache or pain, it is warranted to do all it purports on the label.

I do not propose to cure every disease—only a class named by my directions. My liniment operates on chemical and electric principles, and is, therefore, applicable, to the cure or natural restorative of all organic derangement arising from an improper circulation of the nerve vital fluids.

Prof. J. H. McEntyre's INDIAN COMPOUND acts directly on the absorbents, reducing glandular and other swellings in incredible short time, without any possible danger from its use under any possible circumstances.

This is an internal and external medicine—composed of roots, herbs and barks, such as our forefathers used.—There is a bountiful supply on earth to cure all complaints if we only know what they were.

This has been a great study with the Medical Faculty for many years, to find out the kinds best adapted to the above complaints—how to put them together, and what proportions to use.

PHOTOGRAPH

MARRIAGE CERTIFICATE

PATENT APPLIED FOR.

Hitherto there has been nothing introduced in way of a Marriage Certificate that has excited any interest or attraction; but the originators of the PHOTOGRAPH MARRIAGE CERTIFICATE claim that they have gotten up something that will be most heartily welcomed by all persons now married and all those who contemplate marriage.

Size and Plan of the Marriage Certificate.

The size of the Certificate is 19 by 14 inches. It contains a beautiful figure representing the union of two hearts. Above the figure is written in beautifully ornamented German Text the words "Photograph Marriage Certificate." There are three spaces in the figure: on the space in the center the Certificate proper is written. The words, "two hearts in one" form an arch over the Certificate proper, and immediately under the arch there is a beautiful figure representing the joining of hands, and where the centre space comes to a point there is a picture of two beautiful turtle doves. On the space to the left there is a place for the photograph of the gentleman and under it we have the words, "To the Husband," in ornamental text, under which we have selections of Scripture passages addressed to the husband. On the left side of the engraving we have a place for the Photograph of the wife. Immediately under which we have the words, "To the Wife," in ornamental text, under which are appropriate passages of Scripture addressed to the wife. Over the space for the photograph of gentleman we have written in Old English characters, the following appropriate passage of Scripture: "It is not good that the man should be alone," and over the space for the photograph of the lady, we have the corresponding words: "I will make him an help meet for him." At the lower extension of the figure of the hearts, we have the hearts bound together or encircled in part by these words: "What therefore God hath joined together let no man put asunder." The Certificate is so constructed that card photographs of both bride and bridegroom can be inserted without the least possible difficulty. Indeed everything connected with it is so elegant, attractive and desirable that many single persons seeing the Certificate have been so much pleased with its appearance, that they purchased on sight one of these beautiful parlor ornaments.

A specimen copy of the Photograph Marriage Certificate will be carefully put up and sent by mail free, on receipt of the retail price, which is ONE DOLLAR.
